ıth Claims Child As Sixth ctim of Wild Shooting Orgy

ıon 18-month-old Lawrence Skeens died at Louisa, Ky. a ven victim of a series of murderous shootings which ıe lives of five of his relatives, including his mother, as Press reported to-

a nephew of James former Marion resident who left here about a week ago

A nurse at the Louisa general hospital said Lawrence died just a few minutes ago' of a bullet wound in the head said by Sheriff Robert L Drown to have been inflicted by Hurley

Several blocks away from the hospital, in a funeral home lay the bodies of Mrs Nora Belle Skeens 32, the boy's mother, his aunt Mrs Susie Billups Hurley, 34, his three-year-old cousin Jay Hurley, and his uncle William Hurley, 45.

Slayer Shot Down

The body of Oliver Hurley 40 named by Drown as the killer of the others, is in a Wayne W Va, funeral home where it has been since he was shot down by a special agent of the Wayne prosecutor's office yesterday, some 16 hours after the shootings

Meanwhile, Prosecuting Attorney J Floyd Harrison of Wayne county, said that the facts in the killing of Oliver Hurley would be presented to the July grand jury

Harrison had credited his agent S B Noe and a civilian member of a posse Millard Bartram of Wayne, with the killing of Hurley in a log cabin two miles northwest of Fort Gay, W Va, which is just across the state line here

Hurley shot a hole in Noe's hat after he and Bartram had stumbled onto the killer in the cabin of Mr and Mrs Floyd Wellman He was killed by Noe's and Bartram's counter-fire

He had taken refuge in the cabin, said Harrison in a reported attempt to kill them too The Wellmans sister and brother-in-law of Hurley had been forewarned and had spent the night at a neighbors

Harrison had attributed the shootings to 'mad jealousy" on the part of Hurley over the estrangement from his wife

Mother Wed at 15

The Oliver Hurleys had married when she was 15, and they have a 19-year-old son and another son, 9, who saved their lives by flight when the shooting orgy started late Sunday afternoon

Mrs Skeens had made a desperate effort to save Lawrence and his 9-month-old cousin Aileen Hurley, daughter of the Oliver Hurleys, by running to their nearby cabin after the shooting started

But Hurley followed them and shot through the window of the Skeens cabin, killing his sister-in-law, inflicting the wound which proved fatal to Lawrence today, and also wounding the baby Aileen

Suffering only from a flesh wound, Aileen was discharged from the Louisa hospital yesterday.

A spokesman for the Curtright funeral home here said arrangements were incomplete, and it could not be learned whether there would be one service for all

The Booton funeral home in Wayne said Oliver Hurley's body was unclaimed.

County's Draft Records Moved

Final Curtain Falls Here on Selective Service; Books Sent to Columbus.

The last vestiges of the local selective service system disappeared from Marion Monday when representatives of the Ohio Selective Service Depot in Columbus removed local records to the depot for storage Records of all Ohio local boards have been removed to the depot where a staff will be maintained to check them and search for information which may be of assistance to veterans or organizations, according to Mrs Mayo Adams, former clerk of combined Marion local boards 2 and 3.

Though local boards are now officially disbanded Mrs Adams said, the state board has asked former local board members to stand by in case of emergency A standby status she explained, would save much of the confusion encountered when the boards were first opened Oct 16 1940

May 31 Deadline

Final deadline for closing of local boards throughout the nation is May 31 State boards are to wind up their affairs one year from that date During the peak of draft activities three local selective service offices were maintained for Marion county Boards 1 and 2 serving the city and Board 3 serving areas outside the city limits With the decline of activity local boards 2 and 3 were consolidated

U.S. URGED TO COMBAT FIRE

Truman Points to Texas City as Reason for Organizing Better Defenses.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6—President Truman asked the nation today to organize its defenses against fire on a countrywide basis in an effort to avoid such spectacular disasters as the recent blast and blaze in Texas City

Unless the present fire rate can be reduced, Mr. Truman said, the loss in this country for 1946 alone will be more than $750 000 000

'The concerted effort of all our people is needed' he said in an address prepared for the first National Fire Prevention conference, in order to make effective the known methods of preventing fires and preventing large losses where fire occurs'

Mr Truman's speech formally launched the deliberations of the three-day conference State and local officials as well as private organizations were invited to participate Maj Gen Philip B Fleming, administrator of the federal works agency, is general chairman

Nation Shocked Recently

"The nation has been shocked," the President said, by a long series of spectacular fires in the last few years—particularly in the last few months—which have resulted in such great loss of life and such widespread misery

'Just the other day, the Texas City disaster drove home anew the lesson that we must find ways and means to combat the ever-present danger of fire and explosion

"The great hotel fires of last year again showed that we cannot afford to entrust our citizens' lives to unsafe buildings.

"But these fires which make the headlines are only a small fraction of the total Thousands of lives are lost annually and tens of thousands of people are injured in the many less spectacular fires which occur hour after hour, day after day throughout the year"

A contributing factor, Mr Truman said, "is our legacy of old construction. Also, we have a complexity of building laws and codes in some communities, and too few in others In many communities, these laws are outdated, and the responsibility for safety from fire is not clearly defined'

Urges Greater Safeguards

He said there should be greater safeguards against fires—'most of them set by human carelessness'—which sweep millions of acres of forest each year and that "our rural areas must have improved and better coordinated protection"

To meet a shortage of experienced fire-fighters, Mr Truman said it may prove feasible to use 'some of the training methods developed during the war and the National Guard facilities for the training of firemen"

He suggested also the conference "might well consider the strengthening of the present laws having to do with negligence," quoting from the book of Exodus of the Bible.

"If a fire break out and catch in the thorns so the stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field, be consumed therewith, he that kindled the fire shall surely make restitution"

Mr Truman said the federal government will do all it can to help solve the problem 'within the framework of existing agencies," but he added 'the impetus must come" from the states and from every community and every individual in the land"

Marshal Kesselring Sentenced To Die

By The Associated Press

VENICE May 6 A British military court today sentenced Field Marshal Albert Kesselring former supreme German commander in Italy to death by shooting after conviction him of war crimes against the Italian people

Kesselrings counsel Dr Hans Laternser had declined to ask for clemency after the verdict was announced saying

"He expressly asked me not to address the court any further"

The attorney said later however that he himself would appeal personally against the sentence

Deliberate 40 Minutes

After pronouncing the verdict the five-man court deliberated 40 minutes to reach the sentence When Kesselring heard the words translated by the interpreter he sat down abruptly in his chair Then he was led from the courtroom by British military police

C L Stirling the judge advocate announced that both the conviction and the sentence was subject to review by the appropriate military authority in this case Lt Gen Sir John Harding commander of British central Mediterranean force

Kesselring was convicted on two counts one of them accusing him of responsibility for the Ardeatine caves massacre in which 335 Italians died in reprisal for the killing of 42 German police troops

He was the third German officer to be sentenced to death for that slaughter The others were Col Gen Eberhard Von Mackensen formerly second in command in Italy and Lt Gen Kurt Mälzer commander of Rome during the Germany occupation They were sentenced last November but neither of the sentences have as yet been confirmed by the high command in Italy

Inciting Troop To Excesses

The second count upon which Kesselring was convicted charged with inciting his troops to excesses in fighting partisans

Kesselring, who was commander of all German forces on the western front for a time in 1940 before taking command in the south went on trial Feb 17 accused of having ordered the reprisal killings of more than 1 000 Italians including school children and two year-old babies

The prosecution charged that the 60-year-old soldier who became a field marshal of the air force on Sept 4 1940, was directly responsible for the Ardeatine caves massacre on March 24 1944, when 335 Italians were shot to death in reprisal for the slaying of 32 German police troops and that he also was responsible for the killing of 1,07? other Italian civilians

SON-IN-LAW NABBED AFTER SHOOTING SELF

West Newton Pastor Dies Pleading That Daughter's Life Be Spared.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., May 6—A 76-year-old minister was shot to death early today as he pleaded with a killer to spare his 44-year-old daughter

The gunman critically wounded the daughter with five rapid revolver shots, fired at the half-clad pastor as he stood over his daughter's body in a dimly lit bedroom, and then shot himself.

Sheriff Ray Dailey of Allen county said Lester Nichols, 42, would be questioned in the shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs Nora Nichols, and the slaying of her father, Rev Lewis Whitaker, pastor of the Pentecostal Church of God at nearby West Newton

Nichols Shot In Head

Nichols tossed and muttered incoherently in a Lima Memorial hospital, suffering, the sheriff said, from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head

Hospital attendants held out little hope for the man's wife, who was wounded twice in the abdomen twice in the legs and once in the shoulder

Mr Whitaker died of a bullet which entered his body in the right armpit and penetrated the heart

At least two versions of what happened in the Whitaker bedroom were in the hands of Sheriff Dailey

An eye witness to the affair was Mrs Whitaker, the minister's widow, who was quoted earlier as saying Nichols forced the house door at 2 30 a m, then the Whitaker's heard their daughter scream 'Don't do it"

Gives Different Version

Later Mrs Grace Nichols, Kenton O another daughter of the Whitakers, quoted her mother as saying Nichols forced the house door, entered the bedroom in which all three were sleeping, shook hands with the minister and then began a quarrel which was climaxed in the shooting

Sheriff Dailey reported a son of the Nichols, Melvin Nichols, was being held as a material witness, although he apparently was not at the Whitaker home at the time of the shooting

Nichols was arrested, said Sheriff Dailey, at McKitrick hospital in Kenton

From questioning, the sheriff said, he determined that after the shooting of Mrs Nichols and her father, the prisoner turned his gun on himself

Comes Out Under Eye

The bullet entered his head under the right ear and came out under his eye.

Apparently, the sheriff said, Nichols fell to the floor but later got up, drove four miles to McGuffey, O, in Hardin county to the home of his brother, Harry. The brother apparently drove the wounded man to the Kenton hospital

Mrs Whitaker told the sheriff her daughter and Nichols had been separated since last fall and the family did not know he was in Ohio.

Faced Other Charge

Nichols was to have appeared yesterday in Indiana to answer a charge of shooting with intent to kill, Bailey said, The charge was filed by Mrs. Nichols as a result of an incident last fall, the sheriff said he understood.

Mrs Whitaker, wife of the slain minister, related that Nichols came into a bedroom where she, her husband and Mrs. Nichols were sleeping

She said Nichols began abusing and cursing his estranged wife. Mr. Whitaker pleaded with him to stop.

Then, Mrs Whitaker said, Nichols fired five times at his wife and shot once at Mr. Whitaker.

"Won't Bother You"

"Lester turned to me," she said, "and remarked:

"'Don't worry, I won't bother you, Mom.'"

The Nichols' oldest son, Melvin, came to the Whitaker home last night, had dinner with the family and begged his mother to return to live with his father, who operated a junk yard at Silver Lake, Ind.

Mrs. Nichols had been living with her parents and with another relative since she recovered from a bullet wound suffered in a family argument last August when the Nichols were living at Akron, Ind.

According to information given out by Sheriff Dailey in Kenton last night Mrs. Nichols returned to West Newton, O., in Allen county to live with her father after [illegible]

FOES OF GREEK AID SEEK TO KILL BILL

Rep. Smith Joins Attempt To Deal Quick Death.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 6—House foes of the administration's $400,000 000 Greek-Turkish aid bill sought to administer a quick death blow to it today

Led by Rep Bender (R-Ohio), they organized forces for an attempt to bar the bill from even getting formal house consideration

Their hope was to win rejection of the procedure by which the house rules committee sent the measure to the floor A vote was in prospect by nightfall

Bender termed it a policy that can lead only to bankruptcy' for the United States

Rep Frederick Smith (R-Ohio), of Marion contended that it will prove "a further drain upon our resources" and 'will drive away what little hope remains to avert totalitarianism'

The task of trying to plot the measure to passage fell on Rep Eaton (R-NJ), chairman of the foreign affairs committee In a prepared speech he urged that the house accept the 'great risks" of the program, contending that to reject it involved infinitely greater risks'

School Lobby Digs In for Fight To Restore Education Bill Cut

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, May 6 — A last-ditch "school lobby" drive to get a $5,000,000 cut in the Daniels-Cramer bill restored on the house floor left action on the disputed measure up in the air today.

House rules committee members conceded a renewed campaign for more school money caused them to leave the foundation bill off this week's calendar although they previously had intended to schedule a vote.

The committee put the $585,000,000 general appropriation bill on the house calendar for tomorrow but decided to wait until tonight before determining what should be done with the $83,000,000 a year school measure.

Members of the house education committee said "pressure" by the Ohio Education association to restore the $88,000,000 figure approved by the senate was the most concerted they ever experienced. The association called on local organizations and individuals to write, telegraph or personally see their state representatives over the weekend or "not later than Tuesday."

Originally $100,000,000

Originally the Daniels-Cramer bill called for $100,000,000 a year for schools. It was trimmed by the senate to $88,000,000, and the renewed OEA drive signified that the school lobby had no intention of holding still for the additional house cut of $5,000 000. Schools received about $60,000,000 last year.

The house rules committee also withheld decision on when to place two local government aid measures on the calendar. They would return some $13,000,000 in intangibles to counties or origin and turn over to the cities the state's right to levy amusement admission levies.

The house liquor control committee asked both opponents and proponents to present their views today on a measure to exempt bars from an old statute requiring those within two miles of state or county fairs to close during expositions.

Vet Bonus

Other legislation up for consideration in committees included veterans' bonus, revision of workmen's compensation laws and a series of proposals to require

Student Vets Launch Attack on Living Costs

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 6—Student veterans who learned the value of cooperation in wartime have teamed together on the Indiana university campus to protect their peacetime pocketbooks.

Hal Boyle

Leaders of a trailer community of more than 1,000 ex-servicemen and their wives have set up their own cooperative commissary to cut down food prices.

Gene Phillips of Terre Haute, Ind., a 27-year-old former navy pharmacist's mate, who is mayor of the trailer community, said the move was forced on the veterans, whose allowance is only $90 a month.

"The tremendous grocery prices we were paying were making it impossible for us to go on," he said. "They weren't only making windfall profits from us—they were taking us through the cleaners."

Might End Schooling

Phillips and other ex-servicemen got together a year ago and figured that family grocery bills of $60 to $90 a month were compelling many veterans to dip into their savings and would cause others to give up their education. They estimated that some 1,500 student veterans at I.U. were paying out at least $90,000 a month for food alone.

By pooling this buying power they decided they could cut prices and provide more and better food for their families.

"Some grocers had been treating us with contempt in addition to overcharging us," said Phillips. "They had the idea we were living off the fat of the land. A lot of people have that idea. They seem to resent veterans. We don't mind that. But we're going to take care of ourselves. And we're going to get along, too."

Phillips said some grocers tried to block the cooperative venture by asking wholesalers to boycott it, but the wholesalers had declined this request.

Baby Food at Cost

"The commissary did $2,090 business the first week," said the young mayor. "We sell all items for babies and most staple foods at cost. There is a slight markup on other goods to cover our operating expenses. Our only dividends are lower prices. We used to pay 55 cents a pound for hot dogs. Now they will cost us only 30 cents."

Most of the work of running the commissary is done by the veterans on a purely voluntary basis. The only present paid employe is the wife of one who serves as clerk. There are more than 200 children in the trailer camp and more arrive at the rate of four or five a week.

"It may not be an ideal time to have children," smiled Phillips, who has one son, "but most of us feel that if we are ever going to have a family we have to start now."

Bicycle Is Official Car

A friendly, likeable young man with incredible energy, the mayor spends much of his spare time scooting around the community in his official vehicle—a bicycle. He said he and the 16 council men who govern the community have little trouble obtaining cooperation.

"We have no police problem at all," he added.

"We live so close together everybody realizes we just have to get along together and nobody resents what few restrictions we have."

He and the council men get salaries running into four figures.

"The figures are zero, zero, zero," said Phillips grinning.

...ending food and other re... ...road enough to win friends for us? Some congressmen think this is plenty.

2. Or, should we also keep other people informed about us and our intentions? The state department thinks this is needed, too.

$19,000,000 Spent

In the current fiscal year which ends June 30, the state department will have spent about $19,000,000 on this program.

To carry on the program for the fiscal year beginning July 1, the department has asked for $31,000,000.

This request was turned over to a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee.

This subcommittee, since Republicans control congress, was dominated by Republicans. And they have promised to cut government expenses.

State department officials were called in by the subcommittee to explain why they thought the program should be continued at all.

"Must Explain Motives"

William Benton, assistant secretary of state in charge of the program, argued:

"If we are going to send food, or if we are going to send military men, we must explain to the peoples that receive them and to other peoples throughout the world, what our motives are and what we are after."

But Rep. Karl Stefan, Nebraska Republican and chairman of the subcommittee, gave this view:

"I want to stop the growth of Communism every bit as much as the state department wants to do it. My choice of weapons in this war of ideology is food, not fanfare."

Stefan's subcommittee decided the whole program should be wiped out. It recommended this to the full house which must vote on it.

Marshall was so disturbed by the action of the Stefan group that yesterday he called a special conference with top congressmen.

It was reported later they may let the program have $10,000,000, which would mean cutting it to the bone. Wait for the answer.

The department has a special program for Latin America. It wants about $5,000,000 for that, may get half of it.

ASSAILS PRICE PLEA. Newly-elected president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Earl O. Shreve (above) took sharp issue with President Truman's plea to cut prices. He said the people will not be "fooled by attempts to make business men scapegoats and blame business alone for the wage-price spiral."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Undulant Fever

Undulant fever is called brucellosis by the doctor. It is one of the diseases which seem to be claiming more victims with every year. In fact, according to Dr. Thurman B. Rice of Indianapolis, it now ranks fourth among infectious diseases affecting country dwellers and may soon become first.

It is so prevalent in rural areas because it is contracted from such animals as hogs, cattle, goats and horses. It may also be passed to human beings who drink raw milk from an infected cow. For this reason, a number of cases are also found in cities and small towns which use milk that is not properly pasteurized.

Dr. Rice, who is an outstanding public health authority, believes that fully 70 per cent of the cases among farm families are due to swine. Of course, it is contracted only by those who come in contact with the infected swine, such as the farmer who breathes the dust from the hog lot and gets the mud and dirt from the hogs on his feet and hands.

The patient with brucellosis is tired out and run down. He is thin and does not eat well. He has many aches and pains, particularly in the joints. The joints may be stiff and swelling of the lymph glands is commonly present. Headache, backache and, of course, fever are also present. Less often there may be such symptoms as cough, dizziness, constipation. The disease frequently becomes chronic; that is, the symptoms continue over a long period of time.

There are a number of laboratory tests which are helpful in making a diagnosis. One is known as the agglutination test which is carried out by determining whether or not the patient's blood serum will cause the brucellosis germs to form into clumps.

There is also a skin test which is helpful. This is carried out by injecting into the skin a small amount of the skin testing material. If the patient has brucellosis, a red spot, about the size of a quarter, forms at the point of injection.

Various forms of treatment have been tried for brucellosis. Sulfonamide drugs and penicillin apparently are not of great value although they may be slightly helpful. Streptomycin seems to give better results. However, it would appear that vaccine treatment, particularly in the chronic cases, is the most effective way of handling this condition. The vaccine must be given over a long period of time starting with a small dose and gradually increasing in amount. It is suggested that the vaccine be administered at least for nine months and often as long as a year. Dr. Mavor J. Moss of Indiana has treated 74 patients with the vaccine and over 90 per cent have had good to excellent results with complete relief of symptoms.

Lighting engineers estimate 10,000 lives per year could be saved by proper lighting of highways and streets to avoid accidents.

St. Paul's Missionary Guild Elects Officers

Election of officers for the new year was held when the Florence Knauss Missionary Guild of St. Paul's English Lutheran church met Tuesday night with Mrs. Harold Smith on Forest street. Mrs. William Hoffman was elected president; Mrs. Earl Thatcher, vice president; Mrs. Robert G. Messenger, secretary, and Mrs. Smith, treasurer. Installation will be conducted at the June meeting.

The required reading material was returned by members and redistributed during the evening and the lesson study was presented by Mrs. Smith. A book review, "Portrait of a Pilgrim," a search for the Christian way in race relations, by Buell G. Gallagher, was given by Miss Virginia McClure. Guests were Miss Mary McClure and Miss Lennette Smith. The next meeting will be June 5 with Mrs. Arthur Keever on East Church street.

Mrs Stroup returned a week ago after spending more than a year in government service in that part of the world and the display was a part of her valuable collection of dolls from various countries

Flowering plum, narcissus, forsythia and other spring flowers in doll flower containers were combined with candles in pastel shades for the table decorations and the musical part of the program was in the same theme. The guests were welcomed by Miss Ruth Turner who also presented Mrs. W. N. The colorful display of dolls interpreted "Girls' Festival Week" which is observed the week of March 5, and "Boys' Festival Week" observed the week of May 5 The girls' display, mounted on steps covered with a red carpet, interpreted the teaching of etiquette and through the medium of a display of dolls mounted on green-covered steps the boys learned the country's traditions of valor and what is expected of a warrior. # AP Man Wins Pulitzer Prize For News Stories from Russia

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 6 — Winner of the 1946 Pulitzer prize for distinguished telegraphic reporting of international affairs — one of journalism's highest awards— is Eddy Gilmore, chief of The Associated Press Moscow bureau, whose dispatches ranged from a Stalin interview to the human interest stories of Russia's ordinary citizens.

Eddy Gilmore

Other awards announced yesterday by Frank D. Fackenthal, acting president of Columbia university on behalf of the school's board of trustees which annually presents the prizes made possible by a $2,500,000 gift from Joseph Pulitzer, one-time publisher of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, included awards in the fields of literature, music and art

Special citations were made to Columbia's graduate school of journalism and to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Baltimore Sun won the Pulitzer gold medal for "the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by an American newspaper" during the past year

No Play Honored

No prize was given for a play. Recommendations to the university trustees for the prizes were made by an advisory board, and the journalism awards were judged this year for the first time by 16 newspaper editors named by Wilbur Forrest, former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, on the board's invitation.

The citation to Columbia's graduate school of journalism, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Pulitzer, which occurred last month, and on the 30th anniversary of the prizes, expressed the board's "gratitude to the university and to the school for their efforts to maintain and advance the high standards governing these awards"

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which won the Pulitzer meritorious public service prize in 1937 and 1941, was mentioned in a citation "for its unswerving adherence to the public and professional ideals of its founder and its constructive leadership in the field of American journalism."

The Baltimore Sun, whose staff members previously had won six prizes, received its awards for a series of articles by Howard M Norton. "Dealing with the administration of unemployment compensation in Maryland, resulting in convictions and pleas of guilty in criminal court of 93 persons."

Other Pulitzer prizes

"For a distinguished novel published during the year by an American author, preferably dealing with American life"— Robert Penn Warren, a University of Minnesota professor, for his "All the King's Men," a novel telling of a southern political leader's rise to power.

"For a distinguished example of a cartoonist's work published in an American newspaper during the year Vaughn Shoemaker, Chicago Daily News cartoonist, who was the only individual winner this year to have received a Pulitzer prize previously Shoemaker's other award was in 1938

A Rhetorical Question

DURING his interview with Stalin, Harold E. Stassen elicited the following statement from the Soviets' head man: "Let us not mutually criticize our systems. Everyone has the right to follow the system he wants to maintain. We should respect the systems chosen by the people."

With these sentiments Americans agree. As evidence we can point to the fact that there is no capitalist underground in Russia. Americans do not send propagandizers to stir up trouble among the Russians (surely there must be some disaffected persons among all Russia's millions). They would not send them if they could. We have no paper in Moscow registered as a propaganda agent for the United States. We wouldn't have one if we could.

Can the Russians say they are living up to Stalin's statement with regard to subversive activities in the United States? Or rather, can they say it and mean it?

Speaking of Prices

THESE are the days when price reductions are news. When the South Side Merchants association of Chicago agrees on a price cut, it's a matter of news the nation over. When the price of rosin drops 20 cents a hundred-weight, the news services incorporate the fact in a story labeled "price roundup."

But the national price picture shows no important downward trend. While lower prices are listed for eggs, lard, hogs, cattle, wool and copra, quotations have risen on cocoa, flour, butter, corn, oats and cotton. Also, price reductions at retail levels are news, but what of price increases at retail levels? They will be made without fanfare when the price-cutting merchants re-order to fill their shelves.

Price reductions by manufacturers are of more significance. Manufacturing as a whole earned 12.1 per cent in 1946 as against 9.3 in 1945. Many corporations have cash surpluses of formidable size and by reducing prices are gambling their reserves against lower prices.

In all the poring over price indices and the reading of the economic tea leaves, there is one important corollary of the law of supply and demand which must not be overlooked: The measurement of a man's productivity—what he delivers in return for what he is paid—is the inexorable scale by which ages and prices are correlated. If he purchases a lot at high wages, prices will be low, compared with wages. If he loafs and is inefficient at his job—if he does less for $1.45 an hour than he did for 96 cents an hour in 1938, the products of his work must necessarily sell at a higher price. All the moral suasion and all the Newburyport plans can't blink that fact.

No Union Now

THE AFL and the CIO have decided there will be no union merger now. They have agreed to work in close cooperation, but the CIO declines, for the present, to enter the federation on terms similar to those granted the United Mine Workers last year.

Like a merger of two religious faiths with tenets which are almost identical, union consolidation can be a slow process. Merger of the two principal federations eventually will come about, no doubt, but it is dependent upon many intangible factors, not the least of which is the personalities of the men who sit at the conference table to work out the details.

A Close One

ANOTHER sign that our legislative bodies should overhaul their parliamentary procedure is indicatedly the fact that the house rules committee reported the aid-to-Greece bill by a margin of only one vote. That vote was furnished by the chairman who opposed the bill but choose to leave the final decision to the house.

If the committee had decided not to report the bill, a stiff fight on the floor would have been necessary to force it from the committee.

A similar situation occurred in the state senate recently when a committee tried to pigeonhole the colored oleo bill. In that case the committee finally acted because of the power of public opinion stirred by press accounts.

There usually is sufficient pressure from the floor of the legislative body, from the public or sufficient wisdom among the committee members to prevent permanent pigeonholing of important bills. However, this is no excuse for a system which allows a small committee to prevent consideration of a bill by all the legislators. Parliamentary procedure should require committees to report on all bills, either favorably or unfavorably.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 6 — The British believe Americans to be a rather queer lot, says one of their polls, called Mass Observation. We are childish, emotionally and intellectually immature, boastful, bad-mannered, intolerant, ingenuous, impulsive, uninhibited, friendly, kindhearted and generous. They say.

I have just concluded a counter survey with another fellow who hangs around the hardware store and myself on the question of what the Americans think about the British. We decided to name our poll accurately and call it Cross observation.

The conclusion we reached in this universal two-man poll was that something has happened to British national character. The old cartoon picture of John Bull no more resembles Britain today than does Sitting Bull, or any of his relatives with the same surname. Britain is suffering a psychosis. No doubt this has developed from her great troubles of war and suicidal socialism. She has grown so poor she believes anyone doing better is a string of deprecatory adjectives. You have seen the type. The fellow who will not work frequently looks upon workers as bums. Among the least successful, you may always find someone to speak harshly against the most successful.

"Pre-Touch" Sign

The second conclusion of our poll survey was that Britain must be getting ready to ask us for more money. She always begins by insulting us. Like a poor relation who lives by borrowing in war and peace (two wars and two peaces) she has come to believe she has the right to our money, and also the right to insult us while taking it. This is a rather natural human psychosis, which psychiatrists might discover to be a subconscious hate of herself, and her constantly declining inferior position. Britain has always been excessively proud but now she has nothing of which to be proud. In politics her Attlee and Churchill are quarreling like —(Britain please supply a suitable adjective and make it at least childish). Her people threw a tomato at her wartime premier as soon as he had won the war. Sterling value has sunk lamentably. Her coal miners did not produce enough of her number one national product to heat the nation. Yet there is not such dignity in all America as exhibited daily in Britain by one man—the doorman at the Savoy hotel.

Britain desperately needs to cure her psychosis with a few good national jokes, a little laughter, some production of her genuinely superior woolens, some balm for her bitterness, some respect for the better things of life, which, incidentally are all non-political in nature.

Not Far Off

Our poll showed her people were nearly right about us, although they need not have said so, out loud. We are certainly childish, over-emotional and intellectually immature to keep on lending Britain billions for which our people work hard, and taking over her international responsibilities when we see no sign that the money is doing Britain any good. We are carrying friendship to an unintelligent extreme. We should at least get a promise Britain will try harder to do better with our money instead of angrily becoming weaker and weaker.

Yes, we are also boastful, but never hatefully deceitful. A British housewife told her poll we worshipped our standard of life which provides an automobile, an electric washer and a refrigerator. She was speaking with a knowledge that Britain is still in the slopjar stage of living standards, with bicycles or miniature autos, a backbreaking washtub and only a cool cellar but no ice. Yes, I think we have something to boast of in this. Britain should similarly improve her standard.

Bad manners? They are really less and less noticeable in this country. Intolerance? Not as much as there was. Ingenuous? Yes, and ingenious. Look at our inventions which have led the world toward better living for three generations. Impulsive, uninhibited, friendly, kindhearted and generous? Well, just say we are youthful, and filled with a joy of living, and making progress, even toward intellectualism.

But in our two-man poll survey it developed that 50 per cent was dissatisfied with American production. The other fellow went in to buy a bit for his plane to get his work bench in order, but found the hardware store has not been receiving any from the manufacturers yet. "Dog-gone this Truman administration," said the 50 per cent. "When are we going to get full production."

Ten Thousand Dollars And a Bargain, Too.

The National Coffee association and the National Restaurant association have undertaken a $10,000 joint research program in an effort to develop a consistently good cup of coffee.

If successful, that'll be the most noteworthy scientific discovery since the can-opener.

Bad coffee has wrecked more homes than back-seat driving.

It has been strange but true that a nation with atomic know-how was yet unable to develop java brew-how.

Millions for defense, but not five cents for coffee has been our motto. For years our scientists have been devoting their energies to electronics, radar and television when the crying need of humanity has been for a cook-proof percolator.

At last, apparently, we have seen the error of our ways. But why, pray, such a small scale undertaking? A nation that spent two billion dollars to learn the secret of atomic fission ought to muster more than ten thousand to meet such a critical national need.

Survey Forecasts "Play Era"

A QUARTER OF A MILLION PRIVATE PLANES
NOW WE CAN GO PLACES AND DO THINGS!
A CAR TO EVERY U.S. FAMILY—BY 1960
FUN MONEY
—AND PLENTY OF TIME TO RELAX

(Fifth and last in a series on life in 1960)

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The average American is going to do more playing in the coming years than ever before in history.

Working only 37.7 hours a week, with a two week vacation with pay and exciting new play things like air travel and television, Mr. Average by 1960 will be setting new records for both time and money spent on recreation.

This forecast is made by experts of the Twentieth Century Fund, who have just completed an exhaustive survey of what economic conditions may be like in the United States in the 13 years a head.

Even before World War II, the study declares, American workers had more than twice as much free time as workers of the 1890's. By 1941 more than 15 billion dollars was being paid out each year for "recreation"—a sum nearly five times what consumers paid for medical care.

During the war, many service men and women learned to use new forms of recreation in army camps, pools, beaches, tennis courts and athletic fields. The survey says they are likely to demand similar facilities for peacetime use.

Industrial Program Cited

Many industries in the war years opened up gymnasiums, athletic fields and other play grounds to keep their workers contented. The survey predicts that industry-sponsored activities, which have ranged from fish fries to fashion shows and from art exhibits to horseback riding, will continue in peacetime.

In addition, the great amount of moving about done by servicemen and women and war workers, the survey says, will probably stimulate the appetite for peacetime travel by bicycle, bus, automobile, boat, train and airplane.

The twentieth Century Fund study is based on the assumption that by 1960 the immediate postwar boom will have ended and the country will have settled down to a high level of prosperity similar to that of the Twenties.

"Movie going," it says, "has become a fixed habit with the American public and unlikely to be greatly shaken by the advent of television, especially as television broadcasts of important events may become a part of regular motion picture programs. . . .

"Color pictures will be shown more and more widely; 'directional sound' is a probable postwar innovation; and three-dimensional pictures are reported to be 'just around the corner.'"

A big boom in travel is forecast for the future, and the survey says the America which became a nation on wheels after World War I may be well on its way to becoming a nation on wings fifteen years after the end of World War II.

By 1960, it is estimated, a million private planes will be flying the airways, private craft will be sold at a rate of 250,000 annually, and it may be possible to buy a plane for as low as $800 (in the dollars of 1940).

The fast transatlantic sleeper plane will make the trip between New York and London overnight. Costs by air can be expected eventually to shrink to $100 one way to Europe, compared with today's fare of approximately $350, and two-week "overseas vacations" will not be unusual.

The Fund experts indicate that steamships will lose at least half their maximum prewar transatlantic travel in first and cabin classes to airliners. They say railroads, with the exception of "high density" lines and when used for short trips, may no longer be important carriers of passengers.

The survey predicts automobiles will be used even more widely in the next 13 years than in the prewar period. There were 4.5 persons for every passenger car in 1941 and it is expected that there will be more than one car in operation for each four persons—or about one car or every family in the country—in 1960.

But it is going to cost two billion dollars a year to keep streets and highways in condition to handle the traffic.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, May 6, 1937. The giant dirigible Hindenburg, with 99 persons on board, exploded and burned as it was nearing the ground preparatory to mooring at Lakehurst, N. J. A Wyandot county native, Clifford Osbun, was a passenger on the dirigible. A foreign salesman for a Chicao firm, he was returning from Europe and had previously been in Africa. He was in a Lakehurst hospital where his condition was reported as "good."

Morrow county commissioners were studying the possibility of offering a reward for information leading to a solution of the mystery surrounding the slaying of Mrs. Caroline Hack of southwest of Cardington on April 18.

Miss Louise Ackerman, Columbus pianist, was a guest on the program held by the Quest club at the home of Mrs. William Luse on Homer street.

Otto Hittenrauch was installed as noble arch at a meeting of the Druids' lodge.

Mrs. Merle Hamilton was elected leader at a meeting of the Inasmuch circle, King's Daughters, at the home of Mrs. E. E. Pool of Windsor street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, May 6, 1927.

Sale of the Marion County Telephone Co. to the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., negotiations for which were completed in December, was formally approved by the state utilities commission.

County Auditor Earl E. Thomas said he knew of no provisions of the law which would permit assessing the cost of corn borer cleanup against landowners and collecting the same as taxes, a proposal that had been made by federal authorities.

Friends of Miss Hazel Bristley gave her a surprise party at her home on Mound street in observance of her birthday anniversary.

Stalin's Problem Is Security

By WALTER LIPPMANN

STALIN understands very well the difference between an interview and a negotiation. An interview for publication with any very high personage is a privilege. It can be refused. If the privilege is granted, the personage can control the terms and conditions of the interview.

The generalissimo did just that with Mr. Stassen, allowing him to choose the topics of the interview, and to ask him a leading question on each, but not to pursue the questioning. Mr. Stassen had to remember that he was the guest, and that if Stalin chose to misunderstand his questions and to give unresponsive answers, he was in no position to conduct a cross-examination.

Had he been in a position to do that, had he been negotiating with Stalin as an American official instead of interviewing Stalin as a private citizen, it is quite evident that Mr. Stassen was as well equipped as has been any American for a long time to talk a language which Stalin understands. But given the circumstances of the interview, Stalin was able to talk at the crucial questions without answering them.

Mr. Stassen had asked him as an opening question whether the "two economic systems can exist together in the same modern world in harmony with each other?" Stalin replied that they do exist together, that they have existed together, and that the United States of America and U. S. S. R. "didn't wage war against each other."

But Stalin, of course, knew that what Mr. Stassen was about to ask him was whether the Communist party, which rules Russia and influences and directs Communist parties elsewhere, could and would permit the non-Communist countries to live "in harmony" with the Soviet Union. This was the question which Mr. Stassan was permitted only to allude to, not press home to a definite conclusion.

Political Question

This is not an "economic" question. It is a political question. There is no doubt whatever that an exchange of goods is possible, and may be mutually profitable, no matter what are the laws of property. Machine tools, food, oil, coal, copper, rubber, tin, are what they are, whether they are produced under free enterprise, state collectivism, feudalism, slavery, or what not. They can be exchanged, and in that sense all economic systems can, and do, exist together.

But that, as Stalin knows well, and of course Mr. Stassen too, is not the problem which besets the modern world. The problem arises out of the fact that the government of Russia is in the hands of the hierarchy of the Communist party, which controls all the instruments of government, the vast military potential of Russia; and also a network of political parties in continental Europe and elsewhere.

The question is whether Stalin and his lieutenants in the Kremlin will accept a settlement which fixes the limits of the expansion of the Soviet state, and outside those limits no more power for the local Communist parties than they are able to achieve under the rules and customs of ordinary democratic politics.

Stalin wished to give the impression that he desires such a settlement, but that he had some doubt whether we desire it. But his answers were quite unresponsive, and indeed evasive. Mr. Stassen came near asking him, but could not quite do it, why after the destruction of the two countries which really threatened the security of Russia, namely Germany and Japan, the Soviet state remains as rigidly totalitarian as it was when Russia was in mortal danger. It cannot be because Stalin regards Britain, even Mr. Churchill's Britain, as a serious threat, or that he really believes that the United States is acting on the advice of Messrs Bullitt and Burnham and the like.

Why Not Now

The fact is that though the constitution of 1936 is a democratic constitution, it has never been permitted to operate. Why? When Russia was threatened by Germany and Japan she could not risk operating the constitution of 1936. But what prevents her from operating it now? Is it the Churchill speech at Fulton? Is it the atomic bomb? Is it the Truman message? Or is it that the oligarchy which holds power over Russia cannot retain its power if it permits the constitution of 1936 to operate?

That appears to be the real reason, and if it is, then we must ask whether Stalin was telling the whole truth, not merely a part of it, when he said that "Russia wants to co-operate." For the question then is: Can a ruling oligarchy, which cannot operate its own constitution lest it be overthrown, co-operate lawfully and normally beyond its frontiers?

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Letters for Special Delivery

TO GEORGE C. MARSHALL,
Secretary of State.

DEAR GENERAL,

You handled the eggs with the least possible breakage at Moscow and did about all that could be expected. In this modern world where the ballyhoo artist, the grandstand player and the phony get so far on so little, it is a treat to see a little character, dignity and self-effacement anywhere, but nevertheless, I wish you could manage to unbend a little.

As fine a figure as you admittedly make in one of the toughest spots in history, it strikes me you would make an even better impression if de-frosted.

I don't mean that anybody wants you to go in for those ear-to-ear grins that have become a global pattern. You don't have to look like a delicatessen store clerk who has won the Irish sweepstakes. I don't ask you to pose with a platypus, shake hands with child movie stars, be snapped discussing the Saudi Arabia problem with Van Johnson or let the tabloids take a picture of you putting a blanket of roses on a spavined race horse.

All I claim is that it might aid in warmer relationships, close contacts and speedier get-togethers if you would "unlax" and let the ice out.

There is so much bunk and baloney in the world picture today and so many lightweight figures whose motto is "The show must go on" that it is difficult to kick about a man like you who is every inch the solid, deep, conscientious hard-working type who thinks of the press notices, and cameramen last, not first.

But we are living in a cockeyed age and I don't mean mildly cockeyed.

It is a sad fact that the great masses of people would pass Lincoln on the street today and stampede up an alley to get the autograph of an overnight sensation in a honky-tonk.

Like it or not, color, warmth and a little affability count tremendously everywhere and while you never could be a backslapper, a clown or a publicity hound, I wish you would ease the backstays, loosen the collar and seem less hard to get.

You are a gentleman of poise, a statesman of integrity and a diplomat of reserve. It's refreshing. But too much ice and snow on the shoulders is no help. Russia is the bear that walks like a man, which makes it all the more important you don't present Uncle Sam as a man who walks like another cold wave.

Just unbend a little, general. It won't hurt.

Sincerely,
ELMER

Unfair!

By TRUMAN TWILL

This country has just begun to see the possibilities of picketing.

The pickets themselves have just begun. Picketing is the greatest thing since golf to give human beings an excuse to go for a walk.

If people are living longer than they used to, it must be because picketing is keeping them out in the open air, instead of inside stuffy buildings working for a living.

As the public realizes what it has been missing there will be competition for whatever picketing is still permissable under the law, in the same way that there now is competition for the privilege of hunting buffalo, once regarded as a chore.

Picketing is destined to branch out. A lot of things that have been overlooked will get attention. Instead of picketing to put an employer out of business, there will be picketing to keep some of them out of bankruptcy: "Patronize this chump. He needs your help and so do we."

City dwellers will revolt against the high price of food and move out into the country with placards and standards: "Farmers must work harder so wage earners can eat cheaper."

People who need help will turn to the picket line. Ministers of the gospel will march up and down in front of the houses of backsliders: "Go to the devil and like it."

Jilted females will smear signs in lipstick on their spotless reputations and bear them to and fro in front of the premises of men who couldn't be caught: "He didn't ask me. Now I'm asking you."

The day may be far distant when pluted blotocrats who meet payrolls will grow tired of knocking themselves out and throw a picket line around union headquarters: "We want more strikes!"

Family quarrels will spill over on the front sidewalk, with grumpy husbands pacing to and fro, puffing out cigar smoke and proclaiming: "A man has a right to open his mouth in his own house! Henpeck Local No. 57."

Policemen—who've been kicked around by pickets for years and are always being blamed for fighting back—will get the idea. "Come out and fight!" their banners will read.

And in the next depression, the government will pay pickets for bearing placards and banners, because picketing will be better than leaf-raking. If some will hand us a placard we'll start a picket line now: "This weather unfair to gents who want more sunshine."

Facts About Senators

In the aggregate, United States Senators are a middle-aged group, their average age being 56.3 years. There are, however, a number of comparatively young men, including three under 40—Jospeh R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, 37, and William E. Jenner of Indiana and William F. Knowland of California, both 38.

Next in line with respect to age are Harry P. Cain of Washington, who is 40, followed by Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota, J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, all of whom were 41 when Congress convened.

All told, about 25 percent of the senators are less than 50, and 47 are between 50 and 64. The remaining 25 percent are 65 or older. Among the Senate's seniors in age are five who are 75 or more — Edward H. Moore of Oklahoma and Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, both 75; Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, 77; Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, 79, and the oldest, Arthur Capper of Kansas, who is 81.

The typical senator is a man of experience and education. About one-third of the senators in the present Congress have been governors of their states. About two-thirds are lawyers and three-fourths have had college or professional school training.

It is estimated that the U. S. Army used 50 pounds of waterproofed paper for every soldier who entered combat.

Medical Progress Reported Hit By Lack of Animals

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 6—Progress of medical science has been threatened by the shortage of suitable animals for research and "false charges of cruelty" in laboratories, says Dr. A. Sidney Harris of Western Reserve university.

In the monthly bulletin of the Cleveland Academy of Sciences, Dr. Harris declared: "the public has not been taught that animals are necessary for all fundamental researches.

"Money and men can accomplish little without them. It is difficult to get this all-important information disseminated. An unfortunate misconception is aboard concerning the treatment that animals receive in laboratories.

"There have been false charges of cruelty," he continued. "The truth is that every dog or cat that is subjected to any surgery whatever, however minor, is fully anesthetized first. In a large proportion of the experiments, all observations are made in a few hours while the animal remains under anesthesia, and the animal finally is killed while still asleep.

"In experiments that require recovery, the animals are treated as though they were human patients."

Dr. Harris asserted research for the conquest of disease was being throttled by the lack of dogs for "humane experimentation, while unclaimed dogs in tens of thousands are being killed in our publicly supported pounds. An enlightened people would insist that medical laboratories be adequately supplied with these publicly owned animals."

Marysville Escapee Behind Bars After 13-Year Freedom

By The Associated Press

MARYSVILLE, O., May 6—Margaret Ann Martin, 39, who said she "just got tired waiting to get out" and walked away from the Ohio Reformatory for Women here 13 years ago, was behind bars again today to do some more waiting.

Sgt. Margaret Slater of the Toledo police force said Mrs. Martin apparently led a crime-free life since her escape, which interrupted a one to 20-year sentence imposed at Portsmouth, O., in 1931 for forgery.

After she returned to her native Toledo, she worked as a night club waitress and a store clerk, made new friends, kept her affairs to herself and led a law-abiding life, the woman fugitive told Sergeant Slater.

"Many times I thought of going to a lawyer to see if things could be straightened out, but I never could go through with it," the police woman quoted her as saying.

The parole board, meeting in June, must decide how much of her sentence Mrs. Martin still must serve and whether or not the customary two-year penalty for escape will be imposed.

Lists Ways To Duck A-Bombs

City Planner Names Two—Go Underground or Get Out of Town.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 6—Decentralization of cities such as Cincinnati, is not the answer to the atomic bomb threat 'which soon may hang over all cities," says Dr. Louis Wirth, University of Chicago sociologist

Speaking last night during a panel discussion at the annual conference of the American Society of Planning officials, Dr Wirth said there were "only two ways to escape an atomic bomb, or for that matter, modern aerial bombing of any kind

"You can go underground," he declared, "or move out of town. Obviously, it is impractical to move a whole city or even a large part of it, underground But on the other hand, it also is impractical to decentralize a modern city enough to escape destruction by atomic bombs, and still use it as a city

Dr Wirth said that to decentralize a city enough to be safe "You'd have to spread out so far there would be no city left, and you'd have to build new centers which also could be bombed

"When all is said and done," he declared, we might as well try to make the best of the situation by outlawing war through the United Nations, or the development of some similar method"

Donald Monson of the Detroit plan commission proposad to the conference that "liberal planners" base their action on the following considerations'

1. American cities should begin a long-range policy of public land acquisition both within and beyond their present corporate limits in order to have planned extension through a process of satellite cities rather than haphazard expansion which now characterizes city growth.

2 The problem of urban redevelopment can not be divorced from the problem of metropolitan area planning and the control of "fringe" buildings.

3 The clearing and sale of slum land with "minimum controls" and with the chief aim of "stimulating private enterprise is a dangerous program."

4. Improvement of a city's physical environment cannot be "compartmentialized into 'housing' and 'planning' functions."

greater responsibility of labor unions.

The senate in a brief session last night passed and sent to the house a bill to increase pay of common pleas judges in 14 counties.

Sen. Fred R. Selbert (R-Auglaize), co-sponsor of the measure with Sens Robert L Quinn (R-Jefferson) and Ralph A. Winter (R-Medina), said it was designed to aid counties of between 50,000 and 100,000 population having only one common pleas jurist

The proposal would increase judges' present salary by 8 cents for each person over 50,000 population in Clark, Columbiana, Scioto, Richland, Allen, Tuscarawas, Licking Muskingum, Ashtabula, Lake Miami, Ross, Wayne and Wood counties

Deer Hunting Permits

Also approved without dissent was a bill by Sen C. Stanley Mecehm (R-Athens) providing for a $5 special deer hunting permit in event Ohio should have an open season on the animals.

A proposal by Sen. Robert A Pollock (R-Stark), designed to permit the city of Canton to take over the Stark County home returned to the senate today for approval in revised form.

The senate originally approved the plan but the house revised the measure and passed it in a form which would require approval of a majority of the voters in an entire township for a city to annex a portion of its area.

The house last night approved a proposal to increase from $1,000 to $1,500 the amount involved in cases over which Piqua municipal court could have jurisdiction The measure now goes to the senate

Ohio Presses Extradition Of Pennsylvania Fugitive

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, May 6—W. H. Bucksbarg, alias W. H Dern, was still a free man in Pennsylvania today, but the state of Ohio was insisently demanding his return to serve out a quarter-century-old prison term

Judge Thomas F. Marshall of the Allegheny county common pleas court last week turned down an Ohio request for Bucksbarg's extradition.

The record showed, Judge Marshall said, that the 46-year-old carpenter had led an exemplary life since he walked away from a juvenile home in Columbus He had been committed for a minor theft.

But yesterday, Artemas C Leslie, Allegheny county district attorney, ordered an appeal from Judge Marshall's ruling carried to the Pennsylvania supeme court Leslie said the action was requested by the Ohio governor's office.

PHONE STRIKE DRAGS INTO ITS 30TH DAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6—Wage agreements brought telephone employes back to work in five midwestern states today but the main country-wide dispute dragged on into its 30th day

Federal conciliators Peter J. Manno and William N Margolis said a settlement is 'quite possible" before nightfall in the strategic long lines division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

Still optimistic despite slow progress in these negotiations, they predicted sessions resuming at 11 a m would be "the most important yet"

John J Moran, head of the long lines union, told newsmen an agreement might be reached if the company would "come up far enough" in wage offers ranging from $2 to $4 a week.

Meanwhile a settlement was announced for 17,500 workers in the Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, and Nebraska area served by the Northwestern Bell Company

Members of unions affiliated with the strike-directing National Federation of Telephone Workers, they accepted raises ranging from $3 50 to $4 per week

This followed a back to work movement by 37,000 members of New York unions not affiliated with the NFTW, who took a $4 weekly hike

The A T and T declared in a statement last night that nearly one fourth of the 340 000 made idle by the walkout April 7 have now returned to their posts.

CITY WORKERS GET RAISES AT NEWARK

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O, May 6 — The Newark city council granted pay raises of $20 a month and 15 cents an hour to city employes last night despite a warning from the deputy city auditor the money was not available

All city employes who did not share in raises given policemen, firemen and laborers two weeks ago will be affected by the new grant, which is effective June 6

"The money for the increase is not available," said Deputy City Auditor Roger Q Mossman.

He estimated the latest salary boost would demand additional appropriation of $13 000 from the city general fund He said only $800 is left to appropriate

The vote was 7 to 1, with only B A Gaunder, councilman-at-large, dissenting

Mossman said the two raises would mean added expenditure of $23,000 for the remainder of the year

WALLACE'S BAN ON RECORDINGS SCORED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND May 6—Henry Wallace's objection to recording for radio his recent press conference in Washington drew a sharp retort today from the executive board of the National Association of Radio News directors.

The organization, formed less than a year ago by about 100 directors of newsrooms in radio stations of the nation, said in a resolution drawn up by the board at a Columbus meeting

'NARND condemns the action of Henry Wallace in banning a recording microphone from his news conference on April 28 on his return from Europe"

(The former vice president objecting to recording the conference placed the microphone on the floor and kept his foot on it during the proceedings)

'Full and equal recognition should be granted," the resolution, released through executive offices here, read "(to) radio recording equipment in all public proceedings and news conferences Such equipment (should) be accepted as another recording device'

In another resolution, the board complained of a recently published book " 'The American Radio" by Llewellyn White of the commission on freedom of the press (White said radio news coverage was too routine)

Admitting that "there are too many stations in which the White criticism is justified" the board said

"A large number of radio stations in the United States employ competent news staffs (and) are performing a thoroughly skillfull and public-minded news job."

ARABS BOLT SESSION OF UN ON PALESTINE

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y, May 6—The Arab higher committee for Palestine charged the United Nations assembly with discrimination today and announced withdrawal of its request for a hearing in the Palestine debate

The assembly's 55-nation political committee was ready to act on the Arab committee's request when Chairman Lester B. Pearson of Canada read a telegram announcing the withdrawal

The Arab organization protested that its request for hearing had been referred to the political committee for a decision while the request of the Jewish Agency for Palstine had been considered by the assembly itself and granted.

This unexpected turn reopened the complicated debate on representation of non-governmental organizations in the extraordinary session.

The new controversy flared up as Soviet circles said Russia was determined to challenge a British-American plan which would exclude the five big powers from he proposed UN fact-finding committee on Palestine

Japs Nervous About Defense

Hope MacArthur-Hirohito Parley Will Bring Guarantee of U.S. Aid.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, May 6—Emperor Hirohito conferred with General MacArthur today for the fourth time, presumably on the new constitution, and anxious Japanese immediately began to speculate on whether they discussed a question which is paramount here.

Will the United States undertake the defense of Japan"

This has been a big question mark since announcement of the constitution last year, with its revolutionary clause renouncing war and the maintenance of armed forces

No details of today's conference were announced, but Japanese sources said it was a courtesy call to thank MacArthur for inauguration of the new charter which strips Hirohito of his political powers. The two talked privately for an hour and 14 minutes

The people generally believe the United States would protect Japan against an aggressor. But in the absence of specific guarantees, they have become increasingly nervous

It was understood that neither the recent elections nor the question of whether the country should choose a Socialist or a Conservative premier were discussed by MacArthur and Hirohito Informed sources said Premier Shigeru Yoshida's cabinet decided today to resign en masse May 20, when the new diet begins a special session

Socialists are claiming the right to name the next premier, since their party won a plurality of diet seats in the recent elections Experienced observers said a coalition of Conservatives might seek the post, however, since Conservatives (of several parties) hold a diet majority

General MacArthur has not and will not take any open part in such a controversy, all sources agreed—although even a hint of his opinion would probably decide the issue, they said

TAFT AGAINST BALL UNION CUBING BILL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today he will vote against proposals by Senator Ball (R-Minn) to outlaw industry-wide strikes and the union shop

The Ohioan told a reporter these provisions, which Ball wants to write into the senate labor bill, "go too far" Both senators are members of the labor committee G O P leaders hope for a final vote on the labor measure Thursday or Friday Taft expressed his views as the senate made ready to resume debate on another amendment, sidetracked yesterday to permit passage of the labor department-federal security appropriation bill

The pending proposal, also sponsored by Ball would restrict industry-wide bargaining by forbidding national unions to dictate contract terms to their locals It also would deny collective bargaining rights to national unions in most cases

Taft, chairman of the Republican policy committee, supports this amendment and predicts it will be adopted

"I wouldn't want to go any further than the restriction on bargaining at this time," Taft said, adding that proposals to ban industry-wide strikes should be referred to the senate-house study committee which would be set up under the bill

The Ohio lawmaker also hit last night at AFL criticism of the senate bill Replying to a newspaper ad by the labor organization, Taft said:

"From the beginning of our consideration of labor reform, we have met the unqualified opposition of all labor union leaders They have opposed every bill and every proposal, no matter how mild And they are still doing so'

The ad quoted Taft as saying that about three-quarters of the matters covered by the senate were "pressed on us very strenuously by employers"

Taft confirmed this, but said there also were employer proposals which would "destroy the unions" and these "are not included in any legislation for which I stand"

SAY MAY KEPT SON CLEAR OF GARSSONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6—The defense at the May-Garsson war fraud trial suggested today that former Congressman Andrew J. May advised his son, Robert, against accepting a half interest in a sub-contract of the Garsson munitions combine.

Charles J. Margiotti, defense counsel, made the suggestion during cross examination of a government witness, Melville B. Rapp of New York, whose direct testimony had linked Robert May to the Garsson sub-contract for army tent poles.

However, Rapp held to his story that Robert, son of the wartime chairman of the house military committee, entered into the agreement and signed it.

Margiotto asked Rapp if it wasn't true that Robert May declined to go anead with the deal "for the reason that his father told him not to go into any such agreement and further more that he was going into the army or navy" shortly thereafter in 1944.

"I don't remember," Rapp replied.

Rapp reiterated that the younger May later assigned his interest to Murray Garsson. The witness said no profit was realized off the subcontract and that it actually resulted in a $10,000 loss.

Garsson, his brother Henry, their former Washington agent Joseph F. Freeman and 72-year-old A. J. May are defendants in the trial. The government contends May accepted more than $50,000 from the Garssons to use his influence with the war department on behalf of their $78,000,000 munitions combine.

Nichols Family Former Residents Of Hardin County

The Nichols family moved to Indiana from Hardin county four years ago. Hardin county authorities said Nichols was convicted several years ago and sent to the Ohio penitentiary on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. He was paroled after serving one year and during his parole he was reported to have broken into a grocery store at Brownstown, O. Following the Brownstown incident he was sent to Ohio penitentiary for eight years, but later was again paroled, Hardin county officials said.

Nichols was in Kenton last night conferring with his attorney Roy Roof, who said Nichols told him he was going to return to Indiana for his trial there today. # Feller Owes Success To Father's Philosophy, Autobiography Reveals

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 6—"Strikeout Story" is not implicitly the autobiography of Rapid Robert Feller—it could be titled, more appropriately: "Bill Feller and Son."

For the lean, sun-tanned farmer from Van Meter, Ia., who received the first tan "below the neck of my overalls" on a Florida vacation with this famous son, is the real hero of the excellent book written by baseball's strikeout king.

Time and again during major crises which threatened to blight the career of the Cleveland Indian's fireballer, the elder Feller appeared on the scene and calmed the seething spirit of the schoolboy star with a few words of homespun philosophy in the manner of the late Will Rogers.

Like Pitching Hay

"Pitching baseball is like pitching hay—you just have to stick with it," he reassured Bob after the hurler set newspaper front pages screaming by expressing the fear that he had "lost my fast ball" at the age of 19.

"Look here, son," Bill Feller added. "It's like driving a fast racing car. After you ride in it for a while it doesn't seem to be going as fast as it was in the first place. That's the way it is with you." Lifted over another psychological hump by his father, the younger Feller then proceeded to fan 10 batters and resume his climb to fame.

"Probably the most important reason for writing the book," Bob told this writer after completing his autobiography, "was to prove to the fathers and sons in America that there is only one way to combat juvenile delinquency.

Take Interest In Son

"That is for fathers to take the same deep interest in their son's ambitions that my father took in mine, regardless of whether a boy wants to become a baseball pitcher, an engineer, or a plumber. The motto of all fathers should be: 'Keep 'em busy.'

"My father kept me busy from dawn to dusk when I was a kid. When I wasn't pitching hay, hauling corn or running a tractor—I was heaving a baseball into his mitt behind the barn. I couldn't repay my debt to him, but I wanted to pass along the thought that if all the parents in the country followed his rule, juvenile delinquency would be cut in half in a year's time."

Dedicated to the memory of his father, Feller's "Strikeout Story" is a dramatic, sometimes humorous, account of the young hurler's hopes and fears as he flashed like a meteor from the skinned diamond on his father's farm into major league stardom at the age of 17.

The moments of Feller's greatest triumph—a no-hit victory climaxing hit better feud with the New York Yankees—open the story. There was no repetition of the Yankees' derisive 1937 call: "Time for milking, country boy," as the beaten Bombers retired in silence. Feller's vendetta with newspaper critics who questioned his postwar effectiveness was fiercely triumphant.

When a reporter asked: "Who was the greatest figure in your baseball career?" Feller's thoughts swung back to his early days on the Van Meter farm and the teachings of his father.

The husky farm boy was only 13 years old when his father told him: "Why, you can throw hard enough to knock a bull down," and asked Bob to forget his infielding ambitions to concentrate on pitching.

Finds Feller on Tractor

The tireless, often passionate, efforts of Bill Feller to guide his son into the major leagues were climaxed when tall, slim Cy Slapnicka, Cleveland scout and a fellow Iowan, plodded through a wheat field for his first conference with the overall-clad youth riding a tractor.

From that moment, Bob Feller was a major leaguer. In later years, his father appeared less often, but with a calming force and a few homely analogies to guide the nervous youth through a conference with stern Judge Landis and other waves which Bob was certain would wreck his career.

After the starting 1938 incident at Boston when Rapid Robert's fast ball "disappeared," Bill Feller uttered the adage which was the foundation for Bob's outlook after his father's death: "You can never tell how good a crop is by the way a few rows grow."

Tells Inside Story

With severe self-analysis, Feller gives the "inside" story of 1940, the year of "black bitterness" when the Indians rebelled against the sarcasm of their manager, Oscar Vitt, were labelled "cry babies" and lost the pennant by one game. Without apology, the pitcher outlines the incidents leading to the revolt and admits the action seems "cruel" from a 1947 viewpoint.

Highlights of the strikeout king's memorable "fanning bees," action on a Navy battleship in a greater contest than the "Battle of Yankee Stadium," the courtship of his charming wife and Feller's triumphant and grateful return to his first love—baseball—complete the book.

Army's Glenn Davis Finally Misses Ball Game

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N. Y.—Glenn Davis, Army's All-America football player and captain of the Cadet baseball team, finally missed getting into a ball game.

When the Brooklyn Dodgers came here to play the West Pointers an exhibition game, Davis sat on the bench with a groin injury. It was the first time in four years of either football or baseball that Davis failed to see action.

"Playing against Villanova, Glenn made a quick move while anticipating where the batter would hit the ball and he pulled a muscle," says Maj. Paul Amen, Army's baseball coach.

"I used him in centerfield three days later against Princeton and although he made two hits to help win the game for our ninth straight, Davis aggravated the injury.

"Davis wanted to play against Brooklyn but we have other games. Now if it were the Navy game he'd play because that's the big one for us—even in baseball. I planned to use him as a pinch hitter against the Dodgers with instructions to run on only a base hit. But it was needless to use him that day as Brooklyn beat us, 16-5."

Glenn Davis, Army's great all-around athlete, talks about injury which sidelined him for first time in four years, with Maj. Paul Amen, Academy diamond coach.

Amen classes Davis as one of the greatest all-around athletes of all time. So does Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, who puts him right up there with such football and baseball stars as Jim Thorpe and Ernie Nevers. Davis also starred in basketball and track for Army.

Davis, who has batted well over .300 in four years of baseball here, was hitting .468, the result of 15 hits in 32 trips to the plate, when sidelined with the only injury of his West Point career. He had stolen 11 bases in eight games.

While Davis declines to comment that he has received any direct offers to turn his attention to professional baseball, it has been known for some time that the Dodgers and some four or five other major league teams would be willing to bid high for his services as an outfielder.

Rickey once said: "Davis can hit, run and throw. What more is expected of a ballplayer?"

But Davis will be graduated in June and already has picked the infantry as his branch of service and will be stationed at Fort Riley, Kas. He and Doc Blanchard, his All-America running mate who together went through three unbeaten seasons on the gridiron, will play their last football game as teammates on Sept. 3 when the College All-Stars face the New York Giants.

There is little chance of them carrying the pigskin together again after the New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund game, for Blanchard has chosen the Air Corps as a career.

Cubs Rained Out at Zanesville; Richmond, Muncie, Lima Win

The Marion Cubs, likely to be known soon as the Marion Ducks, were rained out of another ball game last night—this time on the road at Zanesville. The league leaders have a double-header scheduled with the Dodgers tonight.

Tomorrow the local warriors will invade Newark for a two game series. Friday they return to Lincoln Park to entertain Springfield Friday and Saturday in single games.

Sunday Ival Goodman's Dayton Indians will be in town for a doubleheader, first game at 2 p. m. and the nightcap at 8. They will remain for a single game Monday night.

The two Indiana members of the Ohio State league stood out today as top division contenders in the circuit following victories Monday night over Ohio rivals.

The Richmond, Ind., Roses went into a tie for first place (four victories and one defeat) by a 6 to 3 victory over Dayton at Richmond.

The Muncie, Ind., Tigers, baby member of the loop, held on to third place in the standings (3 and 2) by smothering Springfield Giants at Springfield 16 to 3.

The cellar-dwelling Newark club suffered a 17 to 13 beating from Lima at Newark last night. The game lasted three hours and five minutes. Charley Hopkins homered for Newark with two on in the seventh but Newark's eight-run rally fell short.

Marion Bowlers Finish In Money at Elks' Meet

Although several local bowlers rolled scores high enough to entitle them to a cut of the prize money in singles and doubles competition at the Elks' state tourney at Mansfield this weekend, none of them were able to challenge the leaders.

Six local teams were entered and they rolled in team events Saturday and doubles and singles events Monday. In the tourney it was necessary for a team to total over 2,933 to place in the money, a total of over 1,165 was necessary in doubles, and over 595 in the singles.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT NEAR FOR CHARLES

Ebony Ezzard Takes Decision Over Archie Moore.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 6—Ebony Ezzard Charles moved another step nearer a possible championship battle last night as he decisioned New York's Archie Moore in a 10-rounder at Music hall.

It was a split decision for the Cincinnati light-heavy, two judges giving him the nod and a third calling it a draw.

Gus Lesnevich, champ of the light-heavyweights, watched the proceedings and later told newsmen: "Charles looked very good to me but Moore made it his own kind of scrap and Charles had to fight it that way."

Lesnevich said he would fight Charles, Moore "or anyone else that Joe Vella, my manager, picks." He declined to comment on the reported $75,000 he had been offered to meet Charles here this summer for the championship.

Last night's victory was the fourteenth consecutive for Charles since he left the Army late in 1945 and was his second decision over Moore.

A crowd of 4,502 paid a gross gate of $23,281.50 to see the card.

In the prelims, Jackie Cranford, 183, New York, stopped Tommy Charles, 176, Terre Haute, Ind., in the first of a scheduled eight; Pedro Diaz, 145, Mexico City, outpointed Cleveland Brown, 145½, Cincinnati, in six, and Al Johnson, 166½, Indianapolis, scored a six-round decision over Jack Hill, 173, Chicago.

Inter-State Grid Loop Draws Up Fall Schedule

Officials representing the cities in the Inter-State Football conference met at Hotel Biltmore in Dayton over the weekend to draw a schedule for next fall.

Sid Tennant, president; Paul Eshman, vice president; and Gene Fetter, head coach, represented Marion's team at the meeting.

Marion was fortunate in drawing four home dates for the season. Some of the other teams were not so lucky and will have only three league games on home soil. The Marion schedule is: at Franklin, Sept. 23; Mendon, Sept. 27; at Indianapolis, Oct. 5; at Lockland, Oct. 12; Dayton, Oct. 18; Sheridan, Ind., Oct. 25, and Middletown, Nov. 1.

This leaves the locals with five open dates which will be filled by non-league opposition.

College Rules Govern

Free substitution, 15 minute quarters, and college rules will govern play in the loop. The top four teams will participate in play-offs.

A strict rule against gambling has also been made. Any member or official of the loop caught gambling will be barred from the league and turned over to proper officials. State laws against this vice will be posted in the dressing rooms of every team in the conference. Rules of both Ohio and Indiana will be posted.

A board of five men will meet in Indianapolis June 1 to draw up a complete set of rules and by-laws for the league. They will be presented at the next league meeting at Dayton June 15.

Men assigned to this are James Dillion of Middletown, Sid Tennant of Marion, Harold Howard of Sheridan, Ind., Jerry York of Indianapolis, and Robert Whiteneck of Lockland. Dan Ryan, league prexy and Paul Eshman, league secretary, will also attend.

Eight Members in Loop

Members of the Inter-State Football conference are Indianapolis, Ind., Sheridan, Ind., Dayton, Middletown, Mendon, Franklin, Lockland, and Marion, Ohio.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., could not furnish an opening date so withdrew from the organization.

Main reason for forming the loop was the popularity semi-pro football attained last fall and the belief of persons connected with it that the sport would benefit by organization.

JUNIOR TRACK MEET SET FOR WEDNESDAY

The future high schoolers will get a chance to show their stuff on the cinder paths and in field events tomorrow afternoon in a three school meet at Harding stadium.

Participating schools will be the local junior highs Central, Vernon and Edison. Ten events are listed for the meet starting at 4:15 p. m.

Only seventh and eighth graders will be eligible to participate and only two men from each school in each event.

A meet between all junior high grades will be held May 27. Officials of the city Junior High Athletic association, of which Cecil Gabler of Vernon is president, are hoping for good weather, because, in the event of a forced postponement it would be difficult to reschedule it so that it would not interfere with the Harding track program.

The 10 events are the high jump, shot put, pole vault, 100 yard dash, 880 yard dash, 880 yard relay, the discus throw, the 440 yard dash, 440 yard relay and the 220 yard dash.

STOCK MARKET'S HONEYMOON OVER

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 6—The stock market's honeymoon seemed to be over today as profit cashing on the recent upswing knocked over leaders in virtually all departments.

The direction was downward from the start with volume expanding on the slide and contracting when selective resistance appeared. Losses generally running to 3 or more points were reduced here and there near the fourth hour. Motors and steels led the retreat.

Pere Marquette preferred dropped about 9 points when the I.C.C. postponed its order approving the merger of this road with Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the casualty division were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Great Northern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad (at a 5-year bottom), Schenley (also at a 1947 low), American Tobacco "B," U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Glenn Martin, International Harvester, Anaconda, Equitable Office, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, General Electric, Union Carbide, International Nickel and Air Reduction.

LIPPMANN

For how could it justify to its own people the rigors and the illegalities of its own conduct at home if it were on good terms with all the leading powers of the outer world? Does not the maintenance of the dictatorship in Russia depend upon maintaining a state of tension and insecurity to justify it?

This is the dilemma which explains, it seems to me, the baffling fact that Stalin is always saying that he wants a settlement and that, with all his transcendent authority, he never produces a settlement. He does not want war. He would like economic co-operation. He would probably, if he could, renounce the world revolution if he could settle for security.

But security means to him, not merely the security of the Russian patrimony but the security of the Communist party, and that security, since it depends upon the suppression of Russian freedom, he has been unable to reconcile with genuine peace abroad.

This dilemma will probably not be resolved by any formula which can be agreed to now in the council of foreign ministers. It may be resolved eventually by events which, as we can see in France at this moment, are beginning to take a new turn.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"FAITH" I called in mechanical reproof from the doorway, as I saw the shoulders of Jack and Dicky shaking, and my father heroically repressing his merriment

"What is it, Mummy?" she asked sweetly Then, as I looked squarely at her, she wriggled, not with embarrassment, I knew, but with indecision as to how best she could explain the words with which she just had interlarded her conversation

"Well, I didn't know how to 'spress it," she said "I couldn't say, 'Me and another boy,' now could I? And the other one in my side of the class, that I beat, was a boy And I couldn't say, 'Me and another girl,' when there wasn't any girl And—"

A Hasty Answer

"Never mind," I said hastily "We'll talk about it tomorrow"

"I'll bet that means something I won't like," Faith said meditatively, and Dicky, who had moved quickly to open the door for me, whispered "Quitter!" in my ear as I went through it

"I thought you were being ultrachivalrous," I gibed back, and he sent a parting shot after me as I closed the door

"Below the belt," he murmured, and then Katherine rose from her chair at the foot of Mary's bed

"She's perfectly all right," she said, answering my unspoken question, "but you look as if you wanted to laugh with one side of your mouth, and squash the laugh with the other"

"You must be clairvoyant" I told her. "That's exactly the way I feel"

"I'll bet Faith's been broadcasting," she said understandingly "Come on! Give! I could stand several ears full of Faith's monologues"

"If you were responsible for her diction, you'd hedge on that declaration," I said, and then told her of Faith's boast and the language in which she had couched it.

Laughs Silently

With her eyes warily on Mary, Katharine laughed silently until she wiped tears from her eyes And with my nervous tension relieved, I laughed with her

"You ought to farm that child out to a hospital for neurotics," she murmured at last "She'd be better than nineteen psychiatrists"

"I'll think it over," I said, 'but right now, I'll bring you up to date in what's been going on in the other room

I talked rapidly, softly, and with as few words as possible, as I told her of Olga's messages to her subjects, of my father's acting as custodian of her signet ring, of Olina's altruism concerning her share of the ancestral jewels, of Olga's insistence that Noel stay in his father's suite until Mary should be ready to return to their own apartment, and of the plan to have all the windows in all the family apartments barred so that Noel and Mary would believe the espionage scare was responsible for the barring, instead of our fear of Mary's possible desperate actions

Words and Actions

I interlarded the narrative with some of Faith's words and actions, and noticed that while Katharine listened attentively to everything I said, it was patent that Faith's antics were the things which most interested her

When I had finished, she closed her eyes, and leaned back in her chair, and I knew that she was filing what I had told her away in her mental card-index against possible need of the information later on

"That was a Heaven-sent inspiration about those other bars," she said, when she opened her eyes again "Yours, of course"

"Never mind that," I said a bit tartly "Do you think it will work?"

The Principal Thing

"With Noel, yes," she answered unhesitatingly "And that's the principal thing Mary's too keen to be taken in by any subterfuge, but she'll be glad to appear to believe the camouflage After all, she may say she wants to die, and make vague threats, but I'll wager she doesn't let us see any 'overt acts'"

"I fancy you're right," I said "I know I am" she said calmly, and I leaned toward her and spoke in a whisper

"Tell me the routine for tonight," I said

"Just watch her," she answered "Dicky's going to share your watch?"

"Yes"

"That's good You'll both be able to get some rest."

"But suppose she should waken?" I asked
